The only official computer game of the Cricket World Cup 1999.

ED's Note

WARNING: READING THIS MAGAZINE COULD CAUSE ...

IN MY FUTILE PURBUIT TO POINT OUT THE DOVIOUR AND MAKE PEUPLE AWARE OF THE GREATEST GIFT DESTONED UPON US BY THE BODS, COMMON SENSE. EITHER TOURSELF OR SOMEONE CLOC. IF YOU LOOK AT ARTICLES IN THE PART ADDIT THE PERCEY COUTAIN FORMS OF ENTERTAINMENT SUPPOREDLY HAVE UN DUN INNOCENT YOUNG CHILDREN THEN YOU'LL DISCOVER THAT IT'S USIF ALLY EDMETHING ADJULT UDN'T UNDERSTAND, THESE SELF-PROCLAIMED PRO-FEW BRICE RECONDS OF A SAME LIKE QUAKE AND WALK AWAY THINKING IT ADVUGATED NOTHING BUT VIOLENDE, QUAKE MIGHT BE VIOLENT BUT WHAT ABOUT MOVIES, AND HAS ANYONE BEAD A NEWSPAPER LATELY? RECENTLY. THE MEDIA HAS HAD MANY DODG REARDING TO TARGET GUMPUTER DAMES AS THEIR LATEST ROURCE OF GLAME, HIGH BOHOOL SHOOTING TRADECY, COM-PUTER DAMES BLAMED IS ONE HEAQUINE THAT GOES TO SHOW HOW DANDER QUELY LOW THE DENERAL MEDIA'S KNOWLEDGE OF PLAYING DAMES SEALLY IS. EXACTLY HOW DOES A COMPUTER GAME AFFECT A PURSON'S BEHAVIOUR SO MUCH THAT THEY PICK UP A DUN AND START SHOOTING PEOPLE? THIS IS A SIDIELLEDUS GENERAT AND THE CHLY PEOPLE WHO BUY INTO THIS BORT OF THINB ARE ISHORANT AND MISINFORMED, I HESITATE TO ADD. HORONS, COMPUTED DAMES OFFER A FORM OF CECAPO THAT DOES MORE TO PREVENT VIOLENCE THAN ENDOUBABE IT. IF YOU PEALLY WANT TO BLAME SOMETHING COR VIOLENCE THEN BLAME REAL LIFE.

AS YOU MIGHT HAVE NOTICED, THIS ISSUE AND ALL THAT WILL FOLLOW IT ARE NOW STAPLE FREE AND PERFECTLY SOUND - SO ND MORE LETTERS ASSULT THE COVER COMING OFF, GEGAUSE IF IT COMES OFF NOW IT MEANS YOU'VE USED THE MAGAZINE FO BIT THE ODD. SECONDLY WERE COING TO BUT THE MAGAZINE INSIDE A PLASTIC BAG FROM NOW DIT SO NO MURE LEXTERS ASSULT MASSING STOLEN COVER CODS AND THE BREAT CINA SCANGAL. SOME PEOPLE SAY NO TO THE PLASTIC BAG SECAUSE THEN THEY CAN'T PROWSE THE ISSUE AT THE NEWSPARSENT WHILE CITYERS BAY TES. SO LET THE DESIRE SAY AND SO ALL IT LIKES, WE HAVE THE FINAL CAY AND WE ARE SAY-IND BAGGES, THAT IS UNTIL SOMEONE SIVES US A SETTER ARGUMENT, LET US KNOW WHAT TOU THINK ARGUT THIS - OD ON WRITE THAT LETTER NOW WHILE YOU STILL SEMEMOER.

WHY TWO K

DECAME BO MANY OF YOU KEEP ABKING UB ABOUT THE YEAR 2000 AND THE DREADED (MEAD MEDIA FEBTIVAL) MILLENNIUM BUD LEVEN THOUGH THERE HAVE GEEN WORKE VINUDES APOUND FOR YEARS DEFORE THEY EVEN CHOCOVERED THE PROBLEM) WE HAVE A STATEMENT TO MARE. STAR WARE: EPIBODE 1 THE MENACE ON PC & PSX

Star Wars lever is building, up as we approach the release of Episode 1. Scheduled for release in May in the US and then in June for South Africa, Star Wars is sure to make an impact, especially now that its creator, George Lucas, has Lucas Arts Entertainment to backup the film with authentic Lust after the film premiers in the US, Star Wara Trilegy, Episodo 1 - The Phantom Menaco will be released for both the PC and PlayStation gaming platforms. Activision is shready gearing up for a high profile marketing campaign. The Phantom Menace will place you in the position of various characters from the movie including Chi-Wan, Queen Amidala and others as you use your wits and cumning to navigate obstacles that loom behind every corner. At times, only a skilfully excided lightsaber, ledt mind tricks, Force push powers or a handy blaster will suffice.

BTW New Age Caming will be closed on the day that the Star Wars: Episode 1 movie is released. [Frobably gunna be watching it more than once! Ed]

STA: LONDON 1969 COMING

Gran Theft Auto's first add-on, GTA London 1969, is roming to PCs. This popular title surred up a for of controversy when it was released and it remains to be seen if GTA London 1969 will have the same effect. The util-on is being prethered by Rockstar Games and should be available in May or June.

It's London, 1966. The swinging 60's meets the psychotic 70's. You are a stylish buoligan entering a new docade of grievous bodily harm, car-jacking, and general thug like activity.

The add-on features over 30 multistage missions, new characters and maps, a garage of 30 classic cars, and a 60-minute soundtrack featuring Ska and dance muss. Crand Their Asto: London 1969 also introduces players to beature, tamous faces, themes, hippies, and criminals of 1960's British life.

LARA CROFT MOVIE

Finally some progress on the Lata Croft / Toub Raider movie Paramount pattures have recently assembled the creative core for the movie and there are some very talented people included. Firstly, the writer will be Specen de Souza who has written such hits as Die Hard, Die Hard 2 es well as Hodson Hasek. He is to the process of polishing his script which Paramount Pictures has deeped ready. Directing this highly anticipated film will be director Stephen Herek who directed Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure and Mighty Ducks (no comment). Unfortunately there is still no news on which actress will play the coveled role of

with the intent to develop and distribute the next generation of computer gamer for the past 20 years. I've noticed a lot of 30 large environments, highes some puzzles had limited.

games have featured large environments, hig worlds, a few manufacts, some puzzles but limited interaction. Crichion said. Timeline is going to change this standard through fast-paced gameplay in a tight, complex and highly interactive world.

One of the keys to achieving our goal of developing next generation computer games is the OpenSpace3D architecture from Virtus Corporation, Crichton added, "OpenSpace3D is a powerful development tool that allows us to make games with dozens of characters and humdreds of objects with which a player can interact." Thurshine Studies will also leverage the divorse talunts of visual effects expert Michael Backes, A cofounder of limeline, Backes was natoed by Premiero Magazine as one of the ten people who have made the greatest contribution to the motion picture industry's digital revolution. He worked on Jurassic Park as display graphics supervisor and on Rising Sun as co-screenwriter with Cricbion. He will resume a working relationship with David A. Smith, founder of Virtus and developer of the first 3D computer game, The Colony," in 1988. Backes and Smith pioneered the use of computer visualisation techniques for Blm production on James Cameron's The Abess, which sed to the creation of Virtus Corporation, Backes will serve the new company as executive producor. The visual effects work I've done in the motion picture industry, has exposed me to each advance in 3D computer amaging technology, Backes sand. Michael Crichton's innovative story lines, combined with Virtus' technology, will create gaming worlds that offer a level of realism and interactivity like nothing we've ever seen. Timelino's development team includes concept designer Ron Colds (Aliens, Star Wars, and the hit game 'Obsidian'), producer Rob Criswold (Deathmatch Maker for Quake, HexMaker for Hexery II, and Deathmatch Maker II for Quako III. and engineering lead Rick Towson (the Deathmatch series and a host of educational

SCORE - EMULATOR 1 SONY O

The recently announced Playstation Emulator for the Macintosh, bloom! has come under five from Sony, Sony has also requested a temporary restraining order to stop the shapment of the Panulator, but the request was desired in a Federal District Court in Sun Francisco.

A bleem representative wrote on their web site. While today a decision is certainly great news for its and bleem tans everywhere, we can't belp but he a little disappointed. We to fire this tarts of the PlayStation platform. I from the getigo, our design philosophy has never been to compete with the PlayStation, but to completizent the howards systems by bringing its longs interacy of quality game software to millions of PC users.

According to the representative, before the legal battle started, the company attempted to reach an amicable solution, and even tried to reach out to the highest levels of SCFA's management with an invitation to address all legitimate concerts, but these attempts were rejected.

Below are name acrees shots from the Bleem emulator. The first is as offware mode and the second uses Direct ID acceleration. Can you say DAMN

EAX 3.0 API IN MAY

Creative Labor recently introduced EAN TO a new yers sion of its popular Environmental Audio Latensiens d(AX) application programming interfore (API) for developers. FAX 3.0 provides sound design tools that produce new levels of realism for morphing between environments, localised reflection clusters, individual reflections for distant others and improved distance cues utilising Creative's novel statistical reverberation model. As such FAX 3.0 offers developers full control of environmental sound parameters that intensity the gaming and enterlanguest experience. The new sound design tools in EAX 3.0 build on Creative's Environmental Audio Extensions API that is being used by top developers world-wide to add environmental effects to 30 games.

With the Environmental Andro Externions APL Creative is focused on delivering a powerful sound design tool that allows developers to truly explore the art of custing compelling, immersive audio environmeras in games. Internet audio applications and interactive entertamment titles. The new features in EAX 10 leverage the power of the EML (0K) processor in the Sound Blaster Live! family of audio accelerators to deliver a new level of intensity to the Environmental Andro entertainment experience. There are currently over 70 Environmental Audio titles, of which 36 are available today

EAX 3.0 builds on EAX 2.0 with powerful, easyto-use sound design tools. EAX 3.0 introduces new levels of realism to interactive audio applications. The new tools include the ability to use and tune localised reflection clusters or isolated individual reflections, to continuously "morph" between environments, and to further improve distance rendering and naturalsess with Creative's proprietary statistical reverseration model. These features allow the developer to create dynamic reverberant environments with sugarrior, more reduct distance curs and enhanced control over each audio event in the virtual sound scene. Creative plans to debut the EAX 3.0 SDK at its annual developer's conference. Creativity, taking place on May 17 and 18 in Universal City.

At the second 35th Anniversary of the Ford Mustang, Microsoft announced it has reached an agreement with Ford Motor Co. to feature a selection of licensed Ford vehicles in their upcoming Michown Madness racing game for the PC. Players will be able to test drive four of Fords cars, including the new Mustang CT and Muslang Police crainer.

Midtown Madness will feature ten vehicles for racing through city streets, each designed to handle the roads with accuracy. The game will haved tive styles of gameplay, including free-torus circuit rocing. In-game cities, which is based on the streets of Chicago, is ill come complete with changing weather, traffic, city monuments, an active police force and bundreds of pedestriars (Wonder if you can from them like in Carmageddon? Ld) What makes the game interesting is its unrestrained exploration within a realistic city costronment. ("ayers will be able to blaze through roads, shortcuts, neighbourhoods and sometimes even buildings in order to best the Midtown Madriess is slated for release this June.

VR-1 & PSXZ ONLINE?

With the recent announcement of the Playstation 2. It crosses as no surprise that companies are introducing their own projects for the console. VR-L one such company is a developer of online games usually licensed to online service providers such as AOL and MSN Gaming Zuno, have recently purchased cossole developers Devil's Thumb and Japan based POW Cames. They have announced their intention to capitalise on the online potential of upcoming consoles. Tony Harmon at VR-1 says recent public indications by Nintendo, Sany, and Sega have led the company to believe there will soon be a convergence of console and online gaming

VR-1 is developing new technidegies internally that will fit perfectly with the recently announced specifications for Play lation 2. Harmon said. For the last year, VR-1 has been striving towards this convergence of online and console gaming. and we feel the time is right to combine the five

Unfortunately VR-1 is not yet willing to answer questions on any titles that are under development for this endeavour

Anyway all my life I've been madly injensied in computer games, I've played most of them and I've been trying to make my own games. But it's impossible to keep up with it all and try make a game at the same time by myself and so far I haven't really found anybody yet that is doing the same thing. I've had the idea of guing overseas and trying to join a game making company there ds a programmer, to get more experience or if they don't want me as a programmer maybe a floor sweeping as king as I get the experience. The point is, light there a company or at least a group of people in this country that's attempting to make game's that I could try join or speak to?

The Hollywood PC

Ever seen movies and TV programs with computers in? Of course! But every one I see, I get frustrated. Why? Well, not a single one has the PC being used like in real life. Take "You've Got Mail" for example: since when do people click in the middle of the desktop and 'Boom!' you're on the Internet. And in "Fallen", the guy uses the middle mouse button to click. I mean, you can shout "Hey you moren! Use the left mouse button" at him all you like but in the movie, the middle mouse button worked just as well as your every-day left one would. And in "Bugs", the guy checks out what's on a CD by going to the Control Panel. When I go to the Control Panel on my computer, I don't see D: drive anywhere. And since when do you need a 3-GigaHertz CPU just to render a simple model of a brain in real-time 3D? (You guys should teach them a thing or two on how to use a 3D accelerator). But the bottom line is this although these movies might make a person who knows nothing about a PC say "Wow!", they should consider that the people who even know a little about computers (which should be the majority of people in the world - even a Newbie knows that you don't 'Surf the Net' by clicking in the middle of your desktop, unless that's where a shortcut to connecting to their ISP is) would say "That's just builsh*tf"

Quintin Pan

Funny you should mention this, it's been a personal pet hate for me ever since I can remember. We've all seen it before - the blatant disregard for realism when it comes to Hollywood taking 'liberties' in directing computers in movies. I never know whether I should laugh or cry when I watch the 'hero' dash up to a PC in distress and then with a stern and composed voice tell whoever is listening that a virus has overheated the power supply and blown the CPU. But then I suppose if we believe that one man can eliminate a room full of terrorists with a few leaps and rolls, then we can't really blame Hollywood for taking a few shortcuts in the world of silicon chips. A mission then to all our readers to go and seek out these blunders and report back to the NAG team - we might even run a feature and a few of you could become famous. Please, just don't report on Star Wars, we are prepared to eat anything George Lucas dishes out with a smile.

Dear NAG

gurs. Where are we headed? Every 6 months or so, a new processor, 3D Card, Sound Card etc. is released, and see all keep on apgrading, spending our hand earned cash in pursue of the body graff called the ninmate gamine rie. Where is this going Take 3D graphics. At the moment there is still much that can be improved, but give it a few more years and the graptucs will almost certainly be photo-realistic, moving at 90 tps and all this in ludicrous resolutions for where will we go after that? Could upgrading become absolute? Of course we don't know what type of games we will be playing then, may be 3D graphics will have become old hat You're probably wondering where I'm going with all this. My point is that we cant possubly latour where we are headed with this wonderful hobby of ours. It you think of the advancements that were made in the last decade, who knows where we will be at the end of the next decade. This must be the greatest hobby on earth! Why don't you guy's give us your predictions on what will happen. Then in 10 years time we can read florm and sev how right (or wrong) you were. By the way, your magazine is excellent. It wipes the floor with your competition. And the Cover CD is great. Keep it up

NAU is an amazing magazine in ment respects, but it doesn't have an important section in R! What I'm talking about is a place in your magagine that helps people with probiems they are having with computers like things not working and hardware installing and stuff like that. I bought a new graphics card that distn't win't properly and after asking and phoning many people a friend solved the problem for me. My suggestion is for NAG to have a hardware problem solving section on many people with the same probiems can read it and learn things. You say you're the gaming gurus so let's see what you got! Today when I picked up the latest copy of NAC. I was horrified to see the salesperson at the country, putting my cover CD from a pile of ten, randomly discarded in an untidy drawer. The glue strip on the package strick to another CD and 1 was dismayed to see the gentleman twisting the CD to get it home from the offser. As a result, I asked the gentleman to show me the CD. In the same ignorantes fashion as before he planted his fatty imprints squarely on my brand new CD. Then when I said I wanted another CD, he refused. Consequently, every fine I run the CD, my PC locks up. Can't you guys at NAG please put the cover disk in a jewel case next time? When I was a little lad I used to get 20c pocket money per week. " Save it my dear boy! " my parents tried to argue, but it was to no avail. There were more attractive things in life than saving. And so it came that week after week I spent my pocket money eating away at those Pac pills and blowing aliens to smithercens! AtariBaby

S one where along the way, even before you got your dazzling PC or Playstation you must have stopped off at a Street Fighter or maybe even gone head to head on Rage Racer. the before the gionous days of Namco's Rage Raver and Midways bloodoundling action pucked Mortal Constrat, there was an era of games that broke ground and receirds in both the arcade and home entertainment era ... Yeah, Yeah we've beard it all before you might say! Well schoolly you haven't!

The Inspiration and Creation

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away. Well maybe not, but it was roundabout the same time, 1978, that a young boy smashed his toy building blocks around his fathers lounge. Every time someone built a streeture, the young lad would smash it down, with blocks flying in all direc-

Little did he know that his actions would inspire probably one of the biggest cult videogames to bit the gaming world - Ameroids!

Lele Rains was the map who took his sons building block idea to the then head game developer at Atari Arcade division Ed Logg. and suggested that they look at croating a video game based on the concept of reducing big structures to smaller ones. "I guess the way I describe it makes me the father of Asteroids", Raice said. "Ed Logg. es the mother of Asteroids, as he had to live with the idea and deliver the perfect finished product. All I had to do was provate the seed!" Ed Logg pondered on the idea for months, and it wasn't until May 1978 when he saw a television series on the possible threat that tenegade Asteroids pose for mother earth that the inspiration finally came. Initially Logg thought that the objective too simple and that the concept would prove a hit with gamers, but he decided to give it a shot anyway.

Project Asberoids

The Asteroids project became so interest for both Logg and Rains that they often dreamt about the game. In the course of my work I have always found that there are times during the development process when the project gets to me in such a way that I'm eating drinking and sleeping the project. When we were working on Asteroids, I would play the game for a number of hours then I'd go home and as I closed my eyes to go to sleep I disco the asteroids floating across the screen! I was shooting Asteroids all night long, I'd just play the game over and over in my head, just as I would be in real

ASTEROIDS! - BACK IN TIME

Will Granzier A.K.A AtariBaby turns big blocks into small blocks.

Technical obstacle

Now lots keep one thing in mind here. In 1978 there were no dedicated sound chips like there are loday. So they had to create hardware circuits for every sound in the game. In essence they would use a synthesizer to create the sound they wanted. Then they would string together electrical circuits that would produce and output waveform that would correspond to the waveform of the sound created on the synth. When put through an amplifier these sounds would sound like what ever the programmer was trying to create. For those of you who have played Asteroids you might recall the well-known boom boom boom boom sounds that seem to speed up as you played along. The idea was that the sounds would create an even more atressful ambience for the player to play the game in quite ingentious if you think about it's Asteroids was the first success for Atari in the Vestor game market. After experimenting with the vector display technology pioneered by Vectorboam in 1977, Atari a tirst Vector release was Lunar Landet, a vector clone of the antique 1968 PDP -11 computer program, Lunar Lamber did not do well in the arcades, as it was really not designed for the areade gamer. While a good game in its own right, simulations are known to flop in the arcade arena packed with action sheaters and of course the new very famous PONG.

Popular from the start

A goost indication of the games future success was how popular it was within the labs of Atari. The software developers often had to chose penple away from the proto-type machines when they arrived at their desks in the marning or returned from funch. And boy was it popular When Asienoids was finally released in 1979 it became the biggest production videogame in the world at the time. After just couldn't keep up. At one stage the enrire Lunar Lander Production line was halted and all the cabinets were used to build more Astensida upits. All in all a total of just over 70 000 units were manufactured bringing in over $ 5 Million dollars in 28c 's.

The games main draw was the outstanding gameplay that was present beneath the bright warm glow that emanated from the machine. The game only had 5 bottons - LEFT < RIGHT < THRUST < HYPERSPACE and of course FBR. Chate basic if you compare it to the complex button array of a Street Fighter. Cameplay was indeed basic but very challenging. It featured a small triangular Spaceship surrounded by a mass of large rocks. Every time you blasted a boulder it would break into smaller fragments that would change direction and move taster. You repeat the process until all the fragments are completely destroyed. From time to time you would be threatened by spaceships that drifted across the screen and shot at you. When you cleared a level, alas more asieroids appeared and in greater numbers. Kinda basis BUT VERY ADDICTIVE.

Edd Logg was once noted in saying What Asteroids allows players to do is to put themselves in an incredble predicament, and then extricate hemselves from it. You feel like a laro coming out of it? Asseroids remained the number one game in many an arcade for years. n 1989 Asteroids Deluxe was released. The concept in game play was the same, but it had one minor change in that the Hyperipace button was replaced with a should bution. Oh yes and the vector colors were bright green instead of whitel

Today vector games are seen as collectors' thems around the world and are really very hard to come by If compared to today's machines that are assembled in some operators' workshop, all the Asteroids games were built in the USA and the quality is impeccable. And the plus factor is that all of them were shipped in dedicated cabinets', which musans that the cabinet was designed and built by Atan with the original game logos and display signs. If you can find an Asterolds machine in decent condition, GRAB IT Hosegver most operators not know ing that the value these antiques would have in years to come literally dumped them at the local refuse dump just to clean out their ware-Asteroids is to the gaming industry what the model I fined is to the car

Many years before the invention of one-day cricket, there was the misconception that cricket was boring. The excitement was generally left to quick singles and a run out. But things have changed, and draslically I might add, because speciators tove to see a hard ball being copbered around a circular field in a limited overs set up. Now that the world is cricket mad and bungry to spend as much time behind a TV watching it, we the gamers need something to feed our obsession. Step in Flectronic Art's and Cricket World Cup 49

There comes a time when a title comes into the market so quietly that people are unaware of its existence. The Developer is so leasy creating a masterpiece that they forget to tell us of its ensuing birth into the market. Luckily at NAG we realised the potential of such a title and can honestly say that Silver has assounded us. Silver in the game Final Fantacy 7 should have been and more. The fight between good and avil has never been this good.

NAG'S RESIDENT STARCRAFT CHAMPION RAVEN LENDS HIS EXPERTISE AND EXPERIENCE TO THE NEXT GENERATION OF BROOD WARS PLAYERS. WE START THIS 3 PART SERIES WITH AN IN-DEPTH LOOK INTO THE PROTOSS! ADVANCEMENTS.

Now that the Starcraft Expansion: Broodwar has been around for a couple of months and has become, essentially, the standard version of Starcraft, we thought it was time to update our strategy notes. In this three-part series, we take a close look at each of the races and their new units, as well as how these units fit into the original, and hopefully make some victors out of victims... Please note, all information contained herein is based on the latest official version of Starcraft, v 1.05, which is available for download from Blizzard's web site.

PROTOSS BASICS

As with all the races, the Protoss player should neek to expand in a realistic fashion, while equipping an army and climbing the tech-free according to taste and circumstance. To a large extent, the type of map will determine how high one needs to climb the tech-tree. For example, an open land map should result in a low-tech game with players battling it: out with horder of basic units, at least initially, while a very choked up land map or an air map will result in players waging serial warfare. Therefore, it is crucial to know the terrain before you commit resources to one form of warfare or another. Your very first combat unit (seme prefer to use a spare probe, alse a valid approach) should go scout the terrain. This will prevent the embarrassing situation of building four or six gateways, then finding out that each player starts on an island.

An important fact to remember is that, pound for pound, ground units are more powerful and economically viable than any air unit, and usually more versatile. Traditionally, were are fought and won on the ground, by infantry - air forces are unable to take and hold territory, but instead fulfil support and specialist functions. It is very seldom that a game of Starcraft is won purely from the air. So surprise your opponent - If he expects attack from the air, don't disappoint him, with Zealots or Dragoons. Incidentally, Dragoons have been made more affordable, with their mineral cost being reduced from 150 to 125; their gas cost is still 50.

EAND MARK

On a land map one should always assume that the opponent is going to try to rosh. Therefore, it is necessary to build as if for a rush, even if you're not going to try one. Instead, the forces amembled can guard and defend your base while it is being developed and the tech-tree is being climbed. In a land game, it is critical to have at least 12 Zealots on call at any time.

Also, the Citadel of Adun should be a priority, as it offers the Zeniot leg enhancement upgrade. After between two and four gateways build a Cybernetics Core and Assimilator (if one is not already present). A pleasant side-effect of this is that the prerequisites for the Templar Archives are also met, paving the way to High Templar, Dark Templar and their Archon aspects.

Don't be shy to build a Robotics Facility and, as soon as possible after, an-A A Observatory and a Robotics Support Bay. Detection is now an absolute must, especially with the new units Dark Templar and Lurker, so an Observatory should be high on the list of priorities.

The Support Bay will allow Reavers, which are asurably useful in both defence and offence while they are "sitting around" awaiting orders, place them at the entrances to your base/s, and build one or two shield. batteries near them, if you haven't already built some there. Shield but Jeries are cheap and quick to build, and fulfil a very important function -no Protoss base should be without some. A good tactic in a long game is to station a carrier at every base entrance, but a little further back and with two shield batteries to back it up. They have an intimidating effect, but are very effective against ground units, especially in combination with ground units.

AIR MAPE

On maps where players start on islands, one should still make use of the "rush mentality". Of course, different units are required. Instead of massing 12 Zealots, build up to 12 Dragoons. These will provide a mobile, roving defence of the base perimeter, and attack the enemy, once shuttles are available enough "Reaver drops" are: very effective, especially against an opponent that is not expecting one. Reavers are particularly effective at wip ing out someone's supply train, and are thus a good way to: open an assault (by first crippling an appanent's economy then straining it), Once again, shield batteries should be litted standard with any base, for theirsmual reason and the fact that they can now quickly and effective ly recharge attacking forces - aircraft can be used later to

Many players mistakenly put far too much effort and resources into weapon and armour upgrades far too early in the game. In most cases it is far more advisable to research specific ability upgrades, such as the Zealot Leg Enhancement, or the Dragoon's Singularity Charge. These yield far more significant benefits in the early game. Weapon and armour

There was much contro versy about the Qark Archon and its ability to Mind Control units, initially. It was thought by many that this ability gave Protess an unfair advantage in being able to build

However, this is not really an issue, as it is very seldom both comomically viable and manageable to advance two tech-trees simultaneously. Often the result is underdevelop ment on at least one side, and reinventing the wheel repeatedly as far as apprades are concerned. A much more practical use of Mind Control is simply the ability to not only eliminate an enemy unit, but to swell your own ranks with it. As defenders, Dark Archons are impressive, and the bigger the units attacking them, the happier they are! Dark Archors are a great way of neutralising Reaver drops, Battlecruiser attacks and Carrier attacks. In combination with High Templar, the Dark Archent and also talented - Maelstrom freezes enemy organic units, the Templar make them with their Pal Storing, Firedback is an ability you may not see all that often, what with Mind Control being such a more versatile and effective weapon. Always remember to assign

Archom, as their Mind Control ability are extremely effective against proups of enemy planes (and behim have you seen, say, Scouts flying smand scuttered?). They are surprisingly sturdy for their cost and build time. They can be used to patrol lanes against Dropship, Shuttle and Overlord incur-sions on air maps, much in the same way as Scourges can. In the later game, Consains become even more effective, as they can blanket Shuttle landing sites with their Disruptor Web, and thus prevent the Shuttles from being shot at from the ground, while the Cornairs fly escort. Likewise, and for the same reasons, Corsairs are excellent excepts for Carriers. Cheep too. You shouldn't need more.

dirains their shields totally than 24 Consiles very often.

FINAL NOTES

Overall, the key is to be totally suppredictable. To that end, a' player should always strive to keep as many options open aspossible (something that rush) players generally don't do) in: order to be able to surprise his opponent, Brood War teaches an Important lesson with its new units - to advance mure than and branch of the tetch-true at all times. Because if now becomes necessary to build a Robotic Facility and an Observatory, most of the work towards Reavers is already done, just a matter of building one cheap building, the Robotics Support Bay. Result :: Reavers become commonplace; This kind of thinking should be applied at all levels.

These warriors do extreme amounts of damage, but bear is mind that they are far too fragile as a main assault force They are only really useful when they can remain clooked and undetected. If attacking a player who does not expect es by 2 points per upgrade level, and thus the first killing time by about a third! This type of thinking should be applied whenever possible, to resp the best and most efficient benefits possible in every

This is, probably, the bit you've been waiting for.

With the release of Broad War, we saw the introduction of two units per race (well, sort of). Some might think that this shouldn't change the game much, or add much complexity to it, as there are so many units in the game already. However, each of the new sinits interacts differently with each of the other new units and with each of the existing units.

Below are listed the main implications of each new weapon upgrade will, initially, reduce Zergling

The reason for this is that, as early attacks by clouked units, a Dark Templar rush can end the game very quickly indeed. If attacking a Terran player, it is a good idea if the initial Zealists and Dragoons remove any Turrets, then the Duck Templar can run straight in and quickly destroy the Comsat Station. From that point on, have fun! In. general, send in a wave of shock troops first, remove as much detection as possible and only then let the Dark Templars have their fun. When attaclo ing Protoss, the same guidelines apply, with the Robotics facility or the Observatory (or both!) becoming priority targets. Dark Templar are not, as a role, very effective against Zerg in the early game, due to the availability of detectors from the start in the form of Overlords, which the Zerg player must build anyway. Later in the game, they can be very effective, especially when backed up by Consains

Y ip you guessed it, another issue under wraps. It has been quite an interesting month with everyone in the industry getting ready for the Electronic Entertainment Expe or as we know it E3. By the time you read this Warner and Michael will be gallivanting around E3 looking for the all imporlant gaming scoop and press CDs while having a look at what is coming over the next year as well as spreading a little NAG goodwill!

A light Diablo 2 mixed with some Tibernen Sus and sprinkled with some Gran Burismo 2 can pull anyone in an euphoric state of mixed. I can just imagine them drooting over the poor developers PC a and Playstations. While they are away, we will already be finishing up our June tesus, so unfortunately our E3 information, news, previews, first looks things magigie will only appear in the July issue. That a not to say that next months issue will leave anything out. According to remours currently flying around NAG, I might even base a counte strip for send off next months. Imagine that, NAG having it's own contentry, in my acction nometheless. I won't divulge details but the prospect is looking good so far. I will take a developers stance on it though a "You will see it, when you see it" a Soul Assansin.

It seems we made one serious mistake laid month potting Ridge Racer 4 on our cover and in the agromang section for this month. Some serious miscommunication cation going on there and we raked ourselves over the coals (or should I say the Editor-In-Chief blew his tep). Now I am happy to say that RR4 is included in the proview section this month, but unfortunately the full game hasn't graced our deaks yet. Maybe next month. You never can tell with developers changing their minds one a daily base about release ochedules. That's all water under the bridge now, and from here we move forward again at a sheady page. Warren and Trary also saw the test pictures (ultrasound pres) of their unborn infant this month. No word on whether it will be a he or a she yet, but I must admit that it did look like a PlayStation controller that kid bad in its hands. Perbably already has a copy of Cran Turismo 2 if I know the father, if it is a she then there is just one game the poor kid will be playing through infancy. Solitaire I actually think the kid might make a good poker player one-day the way his mother is addicted to card games (just kidding Trary). Had to put that or, just now she starts taking me seriously and revokes my stationary privileges.

Like I said, quite in interesting month. Now once again I must take you on a journey into the unknown, where developers keep changing their minds, release dates change, contents change, bell even the whole game concept inight change as we step into the Twilight Zone and look at what games are coming for next months issue.

Here They Are, But You Never Heard It From Me...

Just released for the PlayStation is Civilization II, the classic PC game from Sid Meier II's an addictive world-building game where users have to expand their settlement, amass armies to consport new land and manage the overall economy of your civilisation. The whole interface has been revamped for the PlayStation version and allows you to lead your empire with ease. We will be taking a peak and seeing just how Civilization II comes across on the PSX.

MANIEJNIE

From Cryo Interactive. We will be putting their latest game through the paces, and deliver a final verdict. Mankind is an exclusively - unline game of galactic proportions, requiring internet access. Players will join one of two sides as they vio for control of the universe. Take control of planets, manage resources and plan battles in this epic strategy game based to a universe that consists of 900 Million planets. The game world is even supposed to evolve when you're not connected to the servers.

Jack Nicklaus 6 Golden Bear Challenge Jack Nicklaus 5 is already rated as one of the best golf simulations available. Next insuch we take a look of the new version - Jack Nicklaus 6, and report on what is new and changed. In version 6 you will be able to play as or against Jack Nicklaus, the Golf legend. There are as holes included with the game and players can create their own courses using the built in Course and Hole editor. Getting Warren away from this game after he sees it might be a problem. Can you say Golf junkto?

Creo lateractive's first venture into PlayStation gaming. S lost priests discovered the secret of Dreams and since manipulation. Unfortunately one becomes greedy and is fistored into the world of dreams to fend for Binnedf. Play as one of three characters inside this 3D world of Dreams. Use major, light and fly as you go deeper and deeper into the dream world. Just how does their first title measure up to the PlayStation standard is what we will find out next month.

London 1969 I can still remember the original, foul language, last cars and the old contraband smuggling, GTA: London 1969 will expand on this, but this time the city to terrorise will be London circa 1969. A time of famous crime bosses, 5ka music, and the English obsession with class. This add-on uses a modified version of the original and allows for more complex missions. Start at the bottom of the source command and work your way to the top

The sequel to Extreme G, Extreme G2 promises improved handling, quicker acceleration and new top speeds as you take one of these revolutionary bikes out for a spin through 12. different environments on 36 tracks. New characters, new weapons and intense multiplayer action is also featured to Extreme G2. Who knows we might even break the sound barrier with one of these bikes - BOOM?

Bottle of Britain is a strategy game that covers the falstoric raids on Great Britain by the Germans in World War II. Play as the Germans and plan raids on England using Bombers and Fighters as escorts, or play as the English on intercept raids with Fighter Squaitrens or protect strategic stres with AA guns. Battle of Britain includes all fighter, bomber and recon strendt that flew in the historical battle!

That's it! Our e-mail letters are dwindling and we are currently receiving more backchat letters via post than e-mail. Come on you internet junious don't let this bappen, just now they close my e-mail account and force me to actually start writing - with a pen and paper. Flood that backchat e-mail box with letters, good or bad, we can handle it. You might even win a totally free game of the month for your effort.

Thanks to everyone that did send letters and keep em coming via post or e-mail, we read them all. Unfortunately we can't respond to every letter received via post, but we do try and answer every letter received via e-mail. Once again our thanks goes out to all our readers for supporting New Age Caming, Until next month.
